

If Ye Shall Believe In Christ

Searching, seeking, longing for the moment when shadows flee the dawn
Darkness blinding, hiding what these eyes so yearn to see
What will guide me?

Heaven speaking marks the path before us
Yet some still go astray
Rod of Iron set with hand divine along the way
Wilt thou guide me?

If ye shall believe in Christ
Ye will believe in these words
Come see His will in plainness as it fell from Prophet's hands
This proof unsheathed, this truth decreed
Its light will bring the humble homeward

Hearken, hear Him, listen as He calls you
His proof can pierce your heart
Strangers, pilgrims, drink from where the waters pure do flow
Let them fill you

If ye shall believe in Christ
Ye will believe in these words.
Sing praises with the angels, come know and understand
This new covenant from God to man

If ye shall Believe in Christ
ye will believe in these words
A miracle, a challenge, a place of grace to flee
No idle claim, no empty refrain
This witness of His holy name
